The Virginia-Maryland Dispute Approaching Settlement.

land Oyster Tongers-Secret Service Agent After Counterfaiters lege of Medicine Exercises-Union Meeting of Evangelical Christians

(Special to Virginian-Pilot.)

Richmond, Va., May 8.-The long-Virginia and Maryland over violators of the oyster law in the waters of the Chesapeake seems in a fair way of settlement in a manner satisfactory to both States, though not in manner at first contemplated by the Governors of two States.

On the night of February 23, 1899, Captain William Parks, of the Virginia police boat, pursued across the line in Tangler Sound and arrested the crew of the Water Lily, and took them to Tangier Island. The next day the police boat seized the Minnie Estelle, crew and cargo, the vessel at the time lying in White Cove, Maryland. All but three the men captured escaped, or were liberated; the three have been in jail Onancock, Accomac county, until liberated the 24th of April. The boats at Onancock, Accomac county, until liberated the 24th of April. The boats were held at Tangier Island until ordered released by the Governor on the 2d of the present month. The crews of the two beats were charged with dredging oysiers on Woman's March Rock, in Tangier Sound, and wholly within the jurisdiction of Virginia.

The men were indicted by the Accomac grand jury, but were never tried. There was quite a lengthy correspondence between Governor Tyler, of Virginia, and Governor Lowndes, of Maryland, over the case, and Attorney General Montague, of this State, and Alt. Gaither, the Attorney General of Maryland, conferred over the matter in Washington. The result of the correspondence and conference was that an agreement was reached which Governor Tyler was hopeful would establish a precedent, and settle the entire question, once for all. His proposition, to which the Maryland authorities acceded, was that the men held should be discharged from custody, and that the boats should be sent back to Crisfield, their home port. At the same time he was to grant to the Commonwealth's Attorney of Accomac requisition papers for the released offenders, and the Governor of Maryland was to issue rendition warrants as soon as the papers were presented. In this way it was proposed to rearrest the men as soon as they reached Maryland soil and return them to Virginia for trial. Governor Tyler was advised by Attorney General Montague that the Executive had the authority to release the vessels, but not the crews of the boats.

This arrangement did not meet with the approval of the Judge of the Accomac court and the Commonwealth's Attorney of the Judge of the Accomac court and the Commonwealth's Attorney of the Judge of the Accomac court and the Commonwealth's Attorney of the Judge of the Accomac court and the Commonwealth's Attorney of the county. They did not like the idea of surrendering the boats, or the men, and Commonwealth's Attorney of the county. They did not have released. As a result, the prisoners were released on Ap

AFTER COUNTERFEITERS.

AFTER COUNTERFEITERS.

George Barker, of the United States
Secret Service, arrived here this morning to look into the case of the counterfeiters arrested here Friday night.

In the preliminary examination of George and Carlos Fase they showed every inclination to shield the woman, Emile Fusi, who, they say, had nothing to do with the crime. She has a good face and good manners. She is not believed to be guilty.

It was bid in by John T. Cutchin. Captain George T. Parker was crier.

Mr. I. O. Hill to-day returned from a visit to Sometton.

A GREAT UNION MEETING.

The union meeting of all evangelical Christians of Richmond and Manchester at the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon was one of the largest ever held in that building. Had the capacity of the house permitted it would have been considerably larger. The hour set for the meeting was 4 o'clock, but long before that time every seat from the pit to the topmost gallery was taken, and those who came later were forced to stand in the aisles. Upon the stage were scated the majority of the ministers of Richmond and Manchester, every denomination being represented by one or more. The choir of one hundred persons, which sang at Trinity Church during the Methodist centennial celebration, also occupied seats on the stage, and was under the direction of Prof. Mitchell.

Rev. R. A. Goodwin, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, presided and the services were conducted in turn by Rev. Dr. R. P. Kerr, Rev. Dr. W. G. Starr, Rev. H. C. Garrison, Rev. C. A. Marks, Rev. Wm. A. Barr, Rev. Jer. Witherspoon, Rev. W. R. L. Smith, and Revs. L. R. Thornhill and Spencer, of Manchester. The meeting was held pursuant to a resolution offered at the March meeting of the Ministerial Union by Dr. Kerr. It was designed to express "Our Vital Oneness in Christ," and each of the addresses was devoted to the theme of unity.

NEWPORT NEWS.

Large Delegation to the May A Young Man Sustains Painful Conference.

Newport News, Va., May 8 .- The Virginia Peninsula will send upwards of 200 delegates to the conference to be held in Richmond Wednesday for the purpose of discussing the primary plan of electing United States Senators.

If the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad can be induced to run a special train back from Richmond on the night of the conference it is very probable that the number of delegates from Newport News, Hampton and Warwick and Elizabeth City counties alone will exceed 200.

When the primary plan was first talked of there was apparently little interest manifested in this section. Things have changed considerably in the past few weeks, and now the movement has supporters everywhere on the ment has supporters everywhere on the Virginia Peninsula.

In the Police Court this morning Williams was given a preliminary hearing and sent on to await the action of the grand jury of the Corporation Court. The grand jury will hear evidence in the case sometime this term.

There are now three men in the city jall charged with murder-Waller Wood, who shot Jack Gloven; Ben Bates, who shot Jack Gloven;

PETERSBURG.

Petersburg, Va., May 8 .- Mr. Samuel Reinach, who came very near being seriously injured on last Friday, is resting as easily at his home as could be expected considering the nature of his injuries. The elevator of his father's hoslery factory got out of order in some way and when he went to look after it a heavy piece of iron, a part of the machinery of the elevator, fell on his foot, crushing it in a most painful manner. Had the plece of iron struck Mr. Reinach on the head, as it came near doing, instead of on the foot, his injuries might have been fatal.
